

BATHROOMS GET SMARTER

The internet of things – using technology to connect us to appliances and appliances to one another – has made its way into the bathroom thanks to Dornbracht.

Imagine using your phone to start running a bath while you're still in bed – or even on your way home from work – to the required depth and temperature.

These advances are no longer the stuff of science fiction, but are available today thanks to Dornbracht, global leader in bathroom products.

The Dornbracht SMART Water range allows you to fully customise and control your bathroom experience. The digitally controlled fittings in the SMART Water series allow individual comfort settings for the automatic operation of bathroom products. This means you can schedule the release of an exact, predefined volume of water at your preferred set temperature – all with a single gesture.

Step into the future by contacting Flush Bathrooms to find out more about the full range of Dornbracht SMART Water options.
